a. DAS

1. The DAS Technical Group has converted the Agency Vehicle Records System (AVRS) from a National Information Processing System (NIPS) to a Generalized Information Management System (GIMS) data base. All data has been successfully loaded onto production. Final detailed testing is currently under way which should allow the data base to be turned over to the data base manager early next week. [redacted] will train the user on the GIMS system and how to input vehicle information as well as how to query and extract select information. [redacted] is in the process of writing a user's manual for the Supply Division. [redacted]

3. In a meeting 27 November with an OC specialist on Wang PCs, it was determined that OL may be able to "piggyback" on the OC contract for this equipment. Since the OC purchase appears to meet our needs--and the unit cost is considerably less--we will pursue this source as a means to acquire the fully tempest-approved equipment package. Acquisition dates, through this channel, appear to be February 1985. The problem of field maintenance and equipment sparing appears to be eased if we can work out a closely coordinated program with OC.
